Election/Restrictions

Claims in the application are 1-39.

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

5 I. Claims 1-27, drawn to a method of selectively depositing a material on a substrate including a contoured surface including a protrusion and a recess by applying a fluid to the surface, allowing the fluid to contact the protrusion and not the recess, and allowing a first material to deposit 10 on the substrate where the substrate is in contact with the first fluid, classified in class 435, subclass 174.

II. Claims 28-37, drawn to a cell containment device comprising a substrate comprising a contoured surface including a protrusion and a recess, a cytophobic material connected to 15 the protrusion, and a cytophilic material connected to the recess, and to an article having the contoured surface, a cytophilic agent within the recess surface and the surface of the protrusion being free of the cytophilic agent, classified in class 435, subclass 283.1.

20 III. Claims 38 and 39, drawn to articles comprising a contoured surface including a protrusion and a recess, and at least one cell in at least one recess, or a single cell in at least one recess, classified in class 435, subclass 395.

The inventions are independent or distinct, each from the other 25 because:

The claims of inventions I-III each require different method steps, device structure and/or components such that each invention can be performed without carrying out any of the other inventions. The method of invention I can be performed without using a cell
5 containment device and article as required by invention II and without using articles as required by invention III. The cell containment device and article of invention II can be prepared without using fluids as in invention I, and the cell containment device and article of invention II are different from the articles of invention III in 10 not requiring at least one cell or a single cell in a recess. The articles of invention III can be prepared without using fluids or protein as in invention I, and without a cell containment device and article having cytophobic and/or cytophilic materials as in invention II.

15 Examining inventions I-III together will be a serious burden due to different searches and considerations in applying prior art required due to differences in claims of the inventions.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in 20 view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and 25 (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

Art Unit: 1651

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election 5 shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that 10 this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a 15 non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 20 1.17(i).
